

Is the Global Citizenship Movement the New ‘White Man’s Burden?’”
Kiara Goodwine

Outline the two sides of the debate surrounding global citizenship as presented by Goodwine.

The author writes that globalization can seem as a “threat to local and national connections” in developed countries like the US and UK. How might developing countries feel this threat differently?

What is Vanessa Andreotti’s point about soft versus critical global education? Are you convinced by it?

How can we reconcile domestic problems while pursuing global partnerships?