

Trusting Women and Epistemic Justice
Meredith McFadden

What are other groups or communities that similarly experience credibility deficits? Can credibility deficits be justified?

How might we explain the epistemic harm perpetrated in the Master of None example?

In what ways are one's credentials as a knower informed by existing power structures and how might that credibility also be used to affect existing power structures? How might we alter this reinforcing cycle?